As part of HCA Healthcare and the HCA Healthcare's Sponsoring Institution, we are driven by a single mission: Above all else, we are committed to the care and improvement of human life. Las Palmas Del Sol Healthcare Internal Medicine Program aims to train our physicians to provide patient centered care with compassion and integrity to patients with diverse backgrounds, cultures, and different socioeconomic factors within a community that is medically underserved. The academic focus ensures training highly skilled and compassionate clinicians to provide our community with exceptional healthcare including basic training on clinical research and quality improvement. The experience provided in our Internal Medicine residency program makes possible the formation of a well-rounded physician who is proficient in the six core competencies or domains established by ACGME. Scholarly activity remains an integral part of our training program in order to prepare our residents to be agents of change and improvement of our healthcare system.

The Accreditation Council for Graduate Medical Education (ACGME) approved the Internal Medicine residency program in 2018. The main teaching sites for the Internal Medicine program is Del Sol Medical Center and Las Palmas Medical Center, in sunny El Paso, Texas.

Both medical centers are structured on a solid foundation with excellent teaching physicians and advanced medical equipment making the sites an ideal educational training for resident medical education. Residents can expect to acquire lifelong clinical experiences within a multicultural patient population. The clinical knowledge gained will sharpen the resident's clinical and leadership skills needed to provide quality patient care.

Our program provides instrumental clinical and leadership residency training with emphasis on extensive in-patient and progressive continuity clinics. Residents will build a dynamic knowledge base and enable them to practice quality healthcare.
